

Broadway Girl Slain by Friend

SUICIDE STRUGGLE ended in death of Pearl McSherry (inset) who tried to prevent Betty Queen (above left) from suicide at Brown's Mills, N. J. Dorine O'Connor (right) is held as material witness. The trio were all known on Broadway. At left, Clifford Caine, county detective, examines fatal gun.

Kehoe Tells His Story

"I WAS FRAMED" said William H. Kehoe, when he testified on his own behalf in his trial for connection with the bootleg cream ring bribes yesterday. Kehoe claims all money he received was for legal services. (Photo Graphic.)

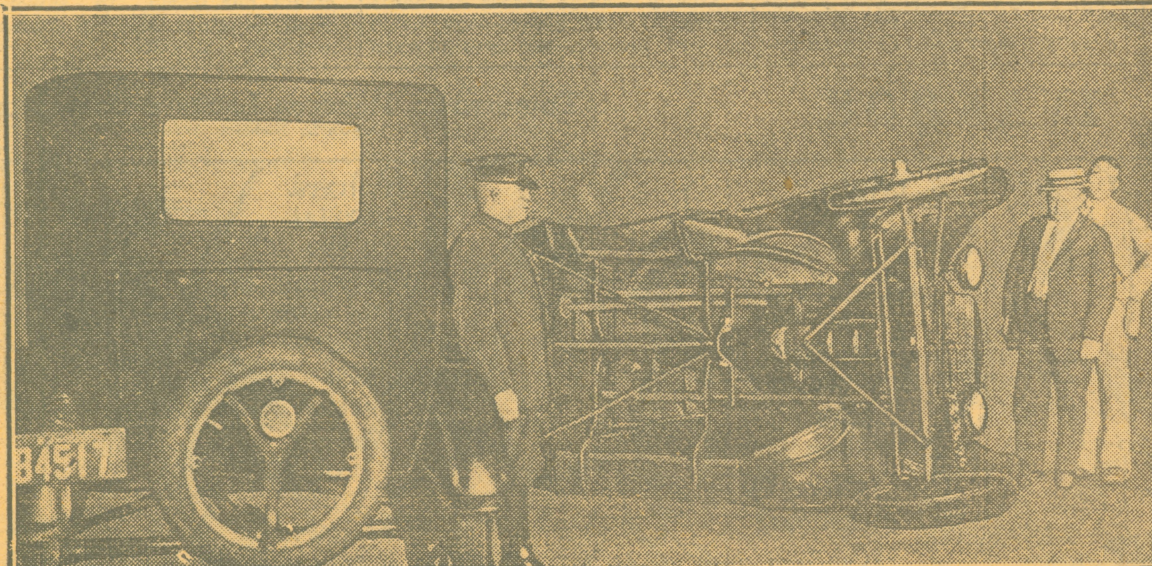

HERO DIES! Successfully saving Dorothy Smart (above) from the treacherous currents of Long Island Sound, Robert A. Bould, popular broker and editor, lost his life yesterday. He became exhausted and drowned. (Photo Graphic.)

RARIN' TO GO! State Senator Alexander Simpson (above) is giving an interview to newspaper reporters on the present situation in the Hall-Mills murder case. (Graphic.)

HIGH AND DRY. Bathing suits, according to Ellalee Ruby, actress, aren't supposed to get wet. So when it rains Ellalee (pronounced as you wish) puts up an umbrella to keep the water off. What's coming next? (Photo Graphic.)

RAINING JUSTICE. It didn't take Jersey long to mete out its justice to Antonio Vaggio, who was convicted of driving a car under the influence of liquor. Judge Hamilton, with straw hat, is shown holding his court in a rain-storm at scene of Antonio's rampage. (Photo Graphic.)